AVG Secure VPN 1 Full Crack is an impressive application that provides secure and private Internet access to your computer without any .Q:

Comparing user defined function with another for x in $(seq 1 100) do function userdefined() { #Task 1 : : : }
function somefunction() { #Task 2 : : : }
#check if the function userdefined() is bigger than somefunction() if userdefined() > somefunction() then
#Task 3 : : : fi done
The code above is to check if there is a function with more tasks than somefunction. The problem in this is that userdefined() is not a shell command. If I were to run a for loop of userdefined() inside the code I would do this:
while true do
function userdefined() { #Task 1 : : : }
function somefunction() { #Task 2 :

1.10.765.0 Crack (free,no.Q: Azure Web Sites - Can't start Apache Service via commands I am in a bit of an emergency. I have an Azure Web App with multiple web sites. Recently I tried to create another web site but forgot to remove the default web site first. Now I can't connect to my ASP.NET application via either HTTP or HTTPS. When I try to visit the application via the browser I receive a 404 error. When I try to run the Apache Service via the Azure Portal

I receive the following error: Web Site Unavailable. Cannot start the Apache service, we didn't find a configuration file at C:\inetpub\wwwroot\MyWebApp\MyWebApp\web.config. According to the forum I found similar issues were related to the Cloud Service being stopped. I have no Cloud Service running so that shouldn't be the problem. I can start the service from the portal but the above error message shows up when I click 'Start' in the dashboard. Any ideas how I can start and stop the Apache Service again from the portal? A: The solution was to connect to the machine remotely and manually start the service. I wasn't too keen on doing it, but I've realised now that this was probably a good thing. In case anyone has the same issue in the future, here's a step-by-step guide on how to connect remotely and stop the Service in Azure: Connect to your Azure Machine (IP) via RDP Browse to the Default Web Site that you want to stop.

Go to C:\inetpub\wwwroot\MyWebApp\MyWebApp\web.config Right-click and select Stop Once the service is stopped, disconnect from your Azure Machine and take a seat for a while. Once the service is stopped, it does take a while to start. You can, however, view the logs
