Adobe Master Collection CS5 Crack.Q: Cannot assign 'int' object to variable of type 'NSString *' I am creating an app where the user starts out with a window and then chooses between numbers 1-2 for multiplayer mode, then a timer runs with the user input, though then the problem where I keep getting cannot assign * to int. I am trying to do something like this: if (gameType == 1) { //Display 5 Seconds Countdown [IbITimer setTitle:[NSString stringWithFormat:@"%i", scoreCount++; } then to try and set the timer to 0 when game type selected was 2. My problem is it says Cannot assign 'int' object to variable of type 'NSString *' when I try setting the title. A: "scoreCount" is an int. You want to use string literals. NSString *stringWithFormat:@"%i", scoreCount]; Q: How to launch a java program which is inside a WAR I'm trying to launch a Java application. The Java application is inside the WAR Using Java Web Start, the application doesn't open I just tried using the "standalone.jar", and it works fine, but the application can't run in a web application. Could you help me? Thank you A: Java Web Start has two different modes of operation. If you are building a self-contained application you don't need to enable Java Web Start because you

Results a study of 21 patients treated at a university hospital clinic]. A comparative trial was performed in 21 patients suffering from chronic venous insufficiency. The aim of the study was to assess the effectiveness and acceptability of elastic stockings of verious sizes as well as the elastic blouse known as "scap.flex". The patients and the investigator were asked to evaluate how effective the elastic treatment was and whether any side effects had occurred. The results were evaluated using a clinical and comparative clinical judgement. A daily report was made documenting the results. The evaluation of the efficacy and acceptability of the elastic treatment was carried out by means of questionnaires. The average age was 54.8 +/- 12.9 years, the duration of venous insufficiency was 2.7 +/- 1.2 years and the average number of days of treatment with elastic stockings was 47 +/- 5.7 days. The comparison of the pretreatment and post-treatment values showed a statistically significant decrease of the venous pressure. The relief of pain could be significantly assessed by the patients. The acceptability of the treatment of longer duration. For the majority of the patients the self-applied elastic stockings were at least as effective as the elastic stockings prescribed by the physician. (ABSTRACT TRUNCATED AT 250 WORDS)1.
